Le Vin Skincare

I love wine in my glass, but vino in on my face?

Your eyes do not deceive. Yes, wine in your skincare! Le Vin offers a complete line of skin care products that contain a proprietary nutrient and antioxidant complex of Chardonnay grape seed extract, resveratrol, and Vitamins A,B, C, D and E. Le Vin makes the claim that their vino inspired blend provides unparalleled protection from free radicals and environmental stressors like pollution, smog, etc. The anti aging skin care line is natural, certified organic and paraben free.

The Le Vin line consists of a face serum, face cream, and eye cream. The face serum is promoted as a Botox alternative. Yes, ladies. Le Vin encourages you to step away from the needle and give their face serum a try. It contains GABA and Agerline, two ingredients known to instantly reduce the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles.

The face cream incorporates Matrixyl, to stimulate the dermal matrix, reduce the appearance of lines, and repair the skin. Le Vin face cream also contains one of my favorite ingredients hyaluronic acid. I love me some hyaluronic acid because it draws moisture to the skin. When selecting eye or face cream, I generally look for hyaluronic acid. In addition to the face cream, Le Vin's eye serum also contains hyaluronic acid as well as a potent cocktail of antioxidants and peptides.

I've always heard that wine is good for you, so perhaps Le Vin is on to something. What do you guys think?

Disclosure From time to time the good folks from various brands, PR companies, and marketing firms graciously submit product to ThisThatBeauty for editorial consideration. Much appreciated! However, ThisThatBeauty readers can take comfort in knowing that gratis product has never nor will it ever guarantee a mention on my lil ol blog. Simply (and bluntly) put, I write about whatever I darn well please. More simply (and more bluntly) put, ThisThatBeauty does not support my Christian Louboutin habit!
